

Good morning, Church. Daily Reading, Luke 24.

Romans 8:38-39 "For I am sure that neither death nor life, nor angels nor rulers, nor things present nor things to come, nor powers, nor height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord." (ESV)

Today, we are celebrating with my daughter Kim her birthday. Thirty-seven years ago, God blessed Donna and me with a beautiful baby girl. Seeing and holding her opened my eyes to another dimension of God's love. I thought, if me, being a sinful human being, limited in my understanding, could love this tiny little one as much as I did at that moment, how much more does God love mankind.

Since God's love is eternal, unconditional, sacrificial and knows no bounds, and is based on who He is and not what we have done, His love is beyond our comprehension.

Man's love is fickle, subject to change, and is often conditional. It comes and goes, often depending on our feelings at the moment. If so, then how can we understand the height, length, depth, and width of such great love that never ceases. When we compare our love for another against God's love for us, our love fails in comparison. That wonderful day, so many years ago (Sorry Kim), was not only a blessing, but it also opened my eyes to another even deeper dimension of God's love for me.

May God continue to reveal to us the depths of how much He really loves us.
