

Good morning, Church. Daily Reading, John 18.

Did you know it can take up to five years for a bald eagle to reach maturity and receive their white head and tail feathers? Today, we saw two eagles still waiting for graduation day.

This is the time of the year when families are beginning to make plans to celebrate with their students who are graduating high school and college. I am so proud of those in my family who have reached this mile stone, especially my niece Tami, who is getting her BA in Business Administration at the young age of 50.

Not everyone has the self-discipline to try something as challenging as working full-time and going back to school to complete a journey started years before.

But in some ways, age is just a number. Sarah became a mom at 90. Moses became the leader of God's people at 80.

I asked Guest Services what the average age of the passengers on our ship was. And their answer was very vague, between 52-70. I am guessing closer to 70. I have seen more wheel chairs on this cruise than passengers under 40. Maybe the lady was just being kind.

Anyway, what is God calling you to do that you might think you are too old to try? Remember, age is just a number.

Isaiah 40:29 "He gives strength to the weary,

And to the one who lacks might He increases power." (NASB)
